

ASSISTANT STATES ATTY., TWO DEAD IN GANG WAR

CO. TO CONTINUE TOWNSHIP AID IN GRAVELING ROADS

Supervisors Voted Appropriation for Such Purpose

Lee county will continue to carry out the township aid program in the resurfacing of roads and the graveling of new roads this year, it was decided at the closing session of the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon. For two years past the county has allowed $1,500 to be used in each township of the county so desiring, a like amount to be spent by the township in the resurfacing or building of gravel roads. In order to continue the program, which has been found to be very satisfactory and most acceptable by all townships, the board voted an appropriation amounting to $33,000 at the closing session yesterday.

The road and bridge committee reported on the work accomplished during the year 1925 and the progress made in the hard surfacing and road building program.

The road and bridge committee asked the board to appropriate the sum of $2,000 to the gravel fund for the completion of last year's program. A total of $33,000 is required to afford aid to all of the townships and but $31,000 was arranged for in the levy. The amount was unanimously voted to be appropriated.

Mr. and Mrs. Fry Retained
The road and bridge committee also submitted a report of all machinery owned by Lee county and used in the patrol work on county roads. Such a report was requested at the regular March session of the board.

The county home committee reported recommending the appointment of Mr. and Mrs. Willis M. Fry as superintendent and matron of the Lee county home at Eldena for the ensuing year, which appointment was confirmed by the board.

County Clerk Fred G. Dimick read a court summons in which Lee county is made the defendant in a suit in assumpsit in the amount of $600 claimed by Whiteside county for improvements on the Howland creek bridge. Upon the motion of Supervisor H. A. Kentsch, the chairman appointed a special committee of three members, Joseph Bauer, Henry Kentsch and Gilbert P. Finch, to assist the state's attorney in the suit. The purchasing committee was empowered to secure bids and purchase coal for all the county buildings.

House Passes Bill to Put More Teeth in Dry Enforcement

Washington, April 28—(AP)—After serving as a new vehicle for expression of wet and dry sentiment in the House, the bill to give legislative sanction to the reorganization of the treasury's enforcement agencies has been added to the Senate's list of pending administration bills to make prohibition more drastic.

The bill would raise the prohibition unit and the customs service to the status of bureaus headed by commissioners appointed by the treasury secretary. These bureaus with the coast guard would be grouped under the direction of a single assistant secretary charged with supervision of prohibition enforcement. The measure also carries an amendment to place also carries the highest prohibition officials under civil service regulations.

Wet members of the House offered little opposition to the proposal and it was passed after a sharply restricted debate by a vote of 196 to 4. By making enforcement more drastic some of the wets held, it will make the law more objectionable and in this way win more supporters for modification.

NEW BUILDING COMMITTEE IS STUDYING JAIL

Will Decide on Repairing Old One or Urging New Prison

Members of the new county building committee of the board of supervisors, appointed Tuesday by Chairman William F. Avery, visited the county jail yesterday to make an investigation of conditions. No formal action was taken by the board at this special session, but it was indicated by Chairman Henry Kentsch of the committee that a recommendation would be made to the board at the regular June session.

"The work on the public buildings committee is new to me," said the chairman of the committee in an interview yesterday afternoon. "I have not been acquainted with conditions at the county jail, other than through rumors that have come to me and from what I have read in the papers. It would not be just for the committee to present a recommendation to the board at this meeting, advising the repair of the present old structure, when such action might be altogether the wrong thing to do. I will admit, in spite of my ignorance of jail conditions, that Lee county is badly in need of a jail."

Must Consider Matter.
"It is very easily to be seen that the present jail is not sanitary and I wonder that the prisoners are kept as well as they are. Whether it would be wise to repair the old jail and make it safe for the keeping of prisoners as well as sanitary, or tear it down and build a new jail, is a thing that must be worked out and decided. This cannot be done in a day. There are many things that I do not know about the conditions of the jail and the entire committee feels the same way. We would not want to ask the board at this time to repair the old jail and then upon investigation find that it would be cheaper to build a new one. There are many problems to be investigated and worked out, but I believe that the committee will be able to present a recommendation to the board at the June session."

Chairman Kentsch indicated that something should have been done with the jail years ago, but for the present, stated that such repairs as are necessary would be made at once.

DEKALB MAN IS IN JAIL RESULT DAUGHTER'S PLEA

High School Girl Accuses Father of Revolting Crimes

Sycamore, Ill.—Ira Shonts, 48 years old, DeKalb piano factory craftsman, well known in the community, confessed that he is the father of his daughter's unborn child.

He will plead guilty to rape charges in circuit court here following grand jury action and State's Attorney Cassius Poust will demand a life sentence.

The daughter, Alice, a 17-year-old Sandwich township high school junior, said to be unusually pretty, accused her father in the presence of the prosecutor and Sheriff E. E. Crawford in Shonts' home Monday night. The parent went hysterically as he made a complete confession of relations with the girl since she was eight years old, and begged for leniency.

Coming as an aftermath to the DeKalb Normal campus scandal of April 11 in which Dorothy Westervelt, pretty co-ed, accused three students of criminal assault upon her, this story, far more revolting in its details, staggered the community.

Amazing Crime.
DeKalb county authorities described this crime as the most amazing that has ever been brought to their attention, one which baffles psychiatrists whose attention has been called to the case, for Shonts, they say, is sane, an expert workman, thrifty and normal.

The story of the daughter is that she was forced to submit to her father because he threatened her life. When he became aware of her condition Shonts sent the girl to live with Mr. and Mrs. John Francis in Sandwich, friends of the Shonts family, where they formerly lived and where the pianomaker's four grown sons now reside.

Passed Blame to Girl.
This, authorities say, was done because Shonts wanted to make it appear that someone else was responsible for the condition of the girl.

Assaulted by Father.
Last Thanksgiving, according to the girl's story, she drove with her father to Sandwich in his car. On the country road he parked the car, dragged the girl into a barn and attacked her. She recounted other times, however, during the last nine years in which he had assaulted her.

Shonts is also said to have frankly admitted assaults upon at least two other DeKalb children between the ages of 10 and 12 years. One of these children is now in Wisconsin.

The attention of State's Attorney Poust was first called to the condition of the girl and her story by Chief of Police L. Hickey of Sandwich.

Shonts does not believe he will be given a life sentence. He says he is getting old and is confident the court will be lenient with him.

ROCHELLE FIRM ACCEPTS BID ON TWO BIG SILOS

Each Will Hold About 3000 Tons of Ensilage, Report

Two mammoth silos, which it is believed will be the largest of their kind ever built, have been contracted for by the Mid-West Canning company of Rochelle, Ill., with plants at Rochelle and DeKalb, and will be erected within the next few weeks by a Freeport concern, the Northern Steel & Concrete company. They will cost approximately $5,000.

Each of the big silos, which are to be built of concrete and will be built at De Kalb, will be forty feet in height and have a diameter of 30 feet. Each will have a capacity of about 3,000 tons of silage. Contrast these dimensions and capacity with those of the ordinary silo and you have a pretty fair idea of how large they really are. The ordinary farm silo is 40 feet high, but only 12 feet in diameter and has a capacity of approximately 125 tons.

The big silage holders to be erected at DeKalb will be filled with corn stalks and husks, and the hulls of peas, great quantities of which are available each day the plants are operated. The company will feed 2,000 head of steers on this silage and thus realize a net profit from its by-product. The Mid-West has two canning plants at Rochelle and is building another of immense size at DeKalb. It is to take care of the silage obtained from this new plant that the new silos will be built.

Automobile Production Near Record in March

Chicago, April 28—(AP)—The monthly business conditions report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, which will be issued May 1, will say that with the exception of October, 1925, automobile production during March was the highest of any month in history. Output of passenger cars by 12 identical manufacturers in the United States aggregated 379,840, gaining 19.2 per cent over February, 19.1 over March, 1925, and 11.4 per cent over the corresponding month in 1924; the amount is less than 12,000 cars under the October record.

Retail sales of automobiles during March by sixty-three dealers in this district showed a large seasonal gain over the preceding month and also a substantial increase over March last year.

Thirty-eight firms reporting deferred payment sales indicated that the value of cars sold at retail on this basis during March was 47.6 per cent of the total retail sales, compared with 44.6 per cent in February and 48.5 in March, 1925.

Great Floral Display to Feature Eucharist

Chicago, April 28—(AP)—One of the finest floral displays ever seen is to grace the surroundings of the procession which closes the International Eucharistic Congress here in June.

A large force of men is now at work preparing the grounds, and making ready to set out the multitude of plants that for months have been cultivated in extensive greenhouses neighboring St. Mary of the Lake seminary at Mundelein, where the final procession takes place.

Thousands of children in Chicago parochial schools are also planning gardens to furnish fresh flowers for the altars of Catholic churches during the Congress. Hundreds of thousands of flowers grown in back yards of the city will be the offering of the children. The author of the garden suggestion is Monsignor C. J. Quille, general secretary of the Congress.

STATE POLICE IN THIS SECTION RECOVER MANY CARS

Have Been Especially Fortunate in Getting Their Men

State Motorcycle Officers in this vicinity scored heavily the first of the week in the recovery of stolen cars and in some instances capturing the thieves. Sergeant Oliver Kemper of Sterling started the ball rolling Monday night when he recovered a Nash touring car which had been abandoned on the Lincoln Highway east of Fulton. Upon investigation, it was found that the car had been stolen from Wheeling, W. Va.

Robert Card of Rock Falls halted two young men driving a Rickenbacker sedan in Sterling Monday night and questioned them. The pair were taken to the police station and it was found that the car had been stolen from Michigan avenue in Chicago early Monday afternoon. Chicago police went to Sterling with the owner of the car and took the machine and occupants back to the city.

Harold Lenox of the Dixon division, stopped four boys ranging in age from 12 to 16 years on route 2 just east of the city limits yesterday morning. They were leaving the city in a Ford coupe when halted. It developed upon investigation that the car they were driving was stolen Sunday night from the streets of DeKalb, where the owner, who resides in West Chicago, had parked it. Three of the quartette are on parole out of the DeKalb county court, and were taken back to that city yesterday.

Motorcycle Officer Larson of DeKalb, was not to be outdone by the state men on the west end of the Lincoln Highway and he likewise scored a good hit. While weighing trucks for overloads on the Lincoln Highway about 4 o'clock yesterday morning he halted a new Ford coupe in which two young men were driving west. Investigation disclosed the car to be a stolen one. The owner had purchased the car Saturday evening at Hammond, Ind., and it was taken from the streets of that city Monday evening. The pair were turned over to Hammond authorities and the car returned to its owner.

Bulletins of Summer School, DeKalb, Will Be

County Superintendent L. W. Miller has received a limited supply of bulletins for the summer school to be conducted at the Northern Illinois Teachers College at DeKalb. Two terms about 4 o'clock yesterday morning he halted a new Ford coupe in which two young men were driving west. Investigation disclosed the car to be a stolen one. The owner had purchased the car Saturday evening at Hammond, Ind., and it was taken from the streets of that city Monday evening. The pair were turned over to Hammond authorities and the car returned to its owner.

The students paraded the business district and staged a demonstration in front of a bank, whose cashier, Frank T. Shearman, is president of the board of education. Mr. Shearman declined to make a statement and after an hour parading the majority of the students returned to their classes. Mr. Casto is prominent in Illinois Rotary circles and is a former governor of the fortieth Rotary district.

Road Houses Shut Down.

Herrin, Ill., April 28—(AP)—A general shutdown of road houses in Williamson county has resulted from liquor raids, conducted the last week by State's Attorney Arlie Boswell, Sheriff George Galligan and Chief Deputy Adrian Smith. Several arrests were made.

Boswell is an avowed Ku Klux Klansman, while Galligan is an anti-Klansman. Their raids were near Marion.

A carload of militiamen last night accompanied a local constable to the roadhouse operated by three Shelton brothers, just north of Herrin and searched for liquor. Nothing was found and no arrests were made. None of the Sheltons were present.

See Small About Road.

Springfield, Ill., April 28—(AP)—A delegation of hard road boosters from Fulton and Schuyler counties, numbering about 80, called on Governor Small this morning. They asked early consideration on the state's $100,000,000 highway program for route 168, Cuba to Fairview. Maple Mills sent delegates also. The delegation was accompanied by State Senator William S. Jewell and Representative Reed F. Cutler, both of Lewiston.

Wanted for Murder.

Springfield, Ill., April 28—(AP)—Governor Small today received a request from the governor of Indiana for the return from Chicago to Crown Point, Ind., of Frank McErlane, alleged Chicago bootlegger who is wanted in Indiana on a charge of murdering Thaddeus Pancher, May 4, 1924.

The governor wired Benedict J. Short, Chicago counsel for McErlane, asking him when they could come to Springfield for a hearing on the requisition.

Coal Rates Reasonable.

Washington, April 28—(AP)—Rates on coal from mines in the Belleville district in Illinois to Kansas City, St. Joseph, Missouri, and Atchison and Leavenworth, Kansas, have been found to be not unreasonable by the Interstate Commerce Commission. APPROPRIATION ORDINANCE WAS COUNCIL'S WORK

Measure Apportioning $151,000 Passed by Council

At the meeting of the city council held last evening, the annual appropriation ordinance was passed. The ordinance provides for the expenditure of $16,380 in the department of accounts and finances and $47,420 in the department of public affairs. The department of public health and safety received $23,730 and $1,000 of this is to be used in the purchase and installation of traffic lights. The street department will operate for the ensuing year on the sum of $12,220. The total amount to be expended in the running of the city's business for the next year is estimated at $151,200.

Local improvement ordinances, No. 225, covering the proposed improvement of Highland avenue, and ordinance No. 223, covering the West Seventh street paving, were passed. A petition was submitted to the council by property owners along East Dixon avenue from East Graham to North Court street, asking for the installation of a sanitary sewer system. The matter was referred to the board of local improvements to investigate and report at next week's session.

Says Church Must Fight.
Paxton, Ill., April 28—(AP)—A spirit of lawlessness is abroad in the land, Dr. Peter Peterson, president of the Lutheran Illinois Conference, said in reading his annual report before two hundred lay and clerical delegates here today.

"The prohibition question is now a law abiding and a law enforcement question," he said. "The liquor interests are putting up the fight of the age. Shall America hold the church in action against the saloon that put the 18th amendment into the constitution. The church must win if victory is to be won."

The executive board of the Illinois Conference has spent $100,000 for home missions during the past year, according to reports submitted. The board during the same time received $20,000 for foreign missions.

Moline Students Strike.

Moline, Ill., April 28—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty students of East Moline High School, representing 80 percent of the enrollment, walked out this morning as a protest against the action of the board of education in refusing to extend Principal J. W. Casto a contract for next year.

A formal statement issued by the board announced that Mr. Casto, while a competent official, had not worked in harmony with the board's policies.

The students paraded the business district and staged a demonstration in front of a bank, whose cashier, Frank T. Shearman, is president of the board of education. Mr. Shearman declined to make a statement and after an hour parading the majority of the students returned to their classes. Mr. Casto is prominent in Illinois Rotary circles and is a former governor of the fortieth Rotary district.

Winter Wheat Improves.

Springfield, Ill., April 28—(AP)—Winter wheat in Illinois is beginning to show improvement, although the late season is small and thin, Clarence J. Root, government meteorologist, said here today in his crop and weather summary for the past week.

"Showers occurred during the week, but some field work was accomplished," he said. "Pastures are greening. Flowing for corn made fair progress, although in many sections it has not been started."

"There is much to do in the way of seeding oats. In some areas this work has been completed, and a few correspondents report oats coming up."

Would Bar Open Lights.

Washington, April 28—(AP)—Elimination of the several hundred thousand open lights that are daily carried into the country's coal mines and substitution of modern electric lamps was advocated by the bureau of mines in a statement today calling attention to the fact that 3,261 deaths have resulted in the last 20 years from six fires and 112 explosions caused by unprotected lights.

Coal Rates Reasonable.

Washington, April 28—(AP)—Rates on coal from mines in the Belleville district in Illinois to Kansas City, St. Joseph, Missouri, and Atchison and Leavenworth, Kansas, have been found to be not unreasonable by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Complaints filed against the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific and others were dismissed.

"HANGING PROSECUTOR" IS SHOT TO DEATH LAST NIGHT IN CICERO CHICAGO SUBURB

Machine Gun Fire Took Lives of Three in an Automobile

Chicago, April 28—(AP)—Gangdom's latest bloody outburst, the machine gun assassination last night of Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin and two saloonkeepers known in the beer business, still was unsolved early this afternoon.

Coroner Oscar Wolff retained John J. Healy, a former state's attorney and long a legal and political associate of U. S. Senator Charles S. Deneen, to act as his legal advisor at the inquest tomorrow. State's Attorney Crowe's faction of the republican party, recently at the primaries defeated many of the Deneen county candidates, of whom Coroner Wolff was one.

McSwiggin's companions, James Doherty and Thomas (Red) Duffy, were known as intimates of the O'Donnell Brothers' beer gang. There was a report that Myles O'Donnell was with the slain trio. His brother Steve was one of six men held as suspects by the police.

The three men slain are believed to have been in the automobile—Doherty's—when the assassins opened fire with the machine gun, supposedly from a passing automobile. The killings occurred in Cicero, a suburb where lawlessness has broken into murder many times in the last few years. McSwiggin's father, Police Sergeant Anthony McSwiggin, believes the machine bullets were intended for McSwiggin's companions and not for the young prosecutor.

AN EARLIER REPORT.

Chicago, April 28—(AP)—William H. McSwiggin, youthful assistant state's attorney, known as the "hanging prosecutor" because of his zeal in conducting criminal trials, was one of three men killed last night in a blast of machine fire fired by gangsters into an automobile in which he and three other men were riding.

Two of his companions also were killed. They were James J. Doherty, reputed leader of beer runners of Cicero, a suburb, and Thomas Duffy, owner of a saloon.

The hail of lead came from an automobile which drew up beside the car in which McSwiggin and his companions were driving in Roosevelt Road on the boundary line between Chicago and Cicero.

Was Marked for Death.

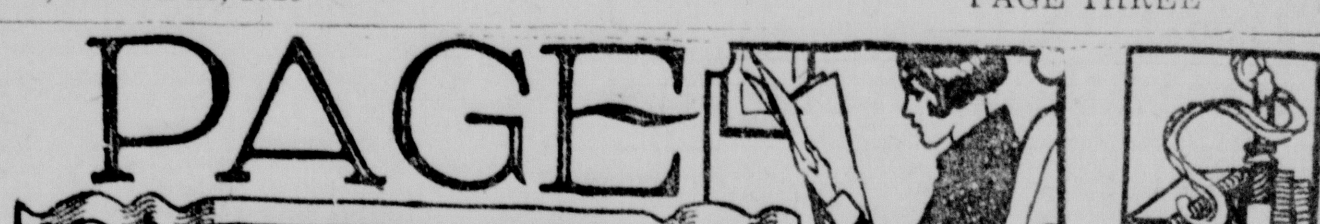

While authorities were delving in a maze of motives for the shooting, John Stege, veteran captain of detectives, said that the assistant prosecutor was marked for death because of his prosecution of John Scasid and Albert Anselmi, Genna gangsters, under sentence to 14 years in prison for the slaying of two policemen.

"The word was passed along the line that he was on his way to Cicero; plans were quickly made and the slayers with their machine gun were soon on the scene," Captain Stege asserted.

In connection with this theory, the Chicago Tribune said that only two days ago McSwiggin had told a reporter for that paper that he had been offered $30,000 to neglect his duty and aid the two gunmen in gaining their freedom.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

The "Handbiller."

The new word "handbiller" will probably be added to our national vocabulary, already rich in such words as "cake eater," "sidewalk sheik," "finale hopper," "curbstone cute," et al. Booth Tarkington gave us "the handbiller." It is a she of flapper age. She "eggs the men on" by throwing about such "handbills" as "Bet you don't know what I heard about you!" "I had the funniest dream about you last night!" "Oh, I think you're just awful, you big bad man!"

It is interesting to read that two women were marooned for seven days in a sedan together and both came out alive!

An Old-Fashioned Flower.

What every theater manager knows is that a gal all dressed up in a be-sprigged Kate Greenaway gown, a spoke bonnet on her pate, an old-fashioned nosegay in her hand, is a "sure-fire hit" with the male audience. Men do like feminine women! Maybe that's why a great Parisian clothes house pleads with a robe in the throat for the return of feminine clothes. Does that mean that women have swung away from this idea that they dress to please men?

Beflowered Capes.

One shot in the cannon of back-to-the-feminine-clothes is beflowered silk capes for evening, cut to swirl sulkily about the feminine contour.

The Latest.

Nail polish on fair fingertips to match the costume is the latest brain child of gay Paris. No longer does the nail that glistens with a ruby, cerise, scarlet, or crimson glow satisfy the fashion mongers. The nail must be blue if the gown is blue, green to match green gowns, orange for orange ones, and so on.

And really smart women, they say, are dyeing their hair to match gowns, and refuse to carry or lead on a string any dog which does not harmonize.

The Next Thing.

Lipstick to match costume are the logical next thing, of course. It might intrigue you to know that a dab of rouge on the chin makes the roly-poly face look more cadaverous than high cheek bones can be lowered by putting the rouge low down and far back; that rouge near the nose shrinks the too-plump face, and that rouge in the hollows of the skinny face plumps it out.

Way to Man's Heart.

What about the servant problem back in the days when 600 guests ate every meal with the Emperor Claudius? When Julius Caesar at one meal, the revenue from three kingdoms, and when the Emperor Vitellius himself is said to have eaten no less than a thousand oysters at a meal and demanded 7000 roasted birds served upon his banquet table?

Then there was the Emperor Heliogabalus who had 600 ostrich heads brought to his table in order that he might eat the brains only. There must have been a servant problem then, too, for Livy gives this account of a move to pacify them: "Then was a cook the most useful slave that could be, and began to be much esteemed and valued, and all bedabbled with broth and bedaubed with soot, was welcomed out of the kitchen into the schools."

Today's Cook.

Today's kitchen wenches need not know how to stuff peacocks and roast camels' feet. But it might please the mistress to the extent of giving the cook her last year's hat, if the cook knows that blanched boiled almonds, one-half up of them, mixed with the usual stuffing ingredients, make a better stuffing than chestnuts.

BY CYNTHIA GREY—

I'm in favor of tea! One of the recent magazines carries an article by a business woman, I note, advocating a ten-minute tea time for office girls in the afternoons.

I'm for it. You can talk all you want about modern efficiency, the atmosphere of the office, concentrating on work, and so forth—but the fact remains that tired employees do not do good work.

The whole history of industry shows that men—and women—have produced more and more the less and less time they worked!

Factories used to work their employees 12 hours and more, grinding them as hard as possible.

Then along came the 10-hour day and either put them out of business or forced a change. And the 8-hour day succeeded the 10-hour day.

Now Henry Ford advocates a 5-day week. As for me, I'm in favor of tea time in the office. It relaxes one, refreshes one up, and puts 9 o'clock speeding into the rest of the working day.

Making work drudgery never pays—and you wives might take up the argument with your husbands who employ girls.

Isabelle Fry Now Mrs. David Ashley

The News Paladium of Benton Harbor, Mich., printed the following article of interest to Dixon relatives and friends, Isabelle Fry being a former Dixon girl:

A few years ago a certain young lady made a resolution never to marry. To prove to the world that she meant it, she began to teach school.

Time flew by, as it sometimes will, and things were going along fine—when Presto! Out of a clear sky comes a thunderbolt, in the form of a certain Mr. David Ashley. Perhaps it wasn't in the form of a thunderbolt he came, because—Aw, ask Mrs. Ashley!

Her history class first noticed the symptoms when their beloved teacher would sit quietly and look dreamily into the air. They took it for granted that she was thinking of Dixon, Ill. Foods? Why didn't they understand? The worst (or best) took place April 3, at Kalamazoo, 9 o'clock sharp.

For some reason or other, the blushing bride tried to keep it a secret, but a certain girl saw the news in a Kalamazoo paper.

Now Franklin was right when he said "Three women can keep a secret, if two of them are dead." Naturally the story blazed around the school like wild fire. After some cross-examination, Miss Fry finally broke down and confessed to the class.

All is quiet in her history class, and peace reigns supreme, and say, you'll be re-learned from calling her Miss Fry, from now on it's Mrs. Ashley, if you please.

Practical Club Was Entertained

The Practical Club was pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Homer Sennett.

The members responded to roll call with quotations from their favorite poet.

The paper of the afternoon, "A Trip to Mammoth Cave," was read by Mrs. Lester Street. Having personally visited the cave, Mrs. Street was able to give a clear and minute description of this freak of nature.

This remarkable cave was discovered accidentally by Houchins in 1809 while he was bear hunting. The cave, hotel and 2000 acres of land in connection, although privately owned, are visited by hundreds of tourists each year.

Valuable deposits of saltpetre, used as gunpowder, are found near this cave.

Illustrations of the most outstanding features of the cave proved to make the subject more realistic.

The club enjoyed two piano solos, one by Grace Sennett, and the second by her little friend, Alice Street.

During the social hour dainty refreshments were served.

Daughter of Rep. H. C. Allen Marries

A marriage announcement which will come as a surprise to friends of the young couple is that of Miss Margaret Allen of Lyndon and Floyd Emmerson of Rock Falls. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith of Mt. Carroll. Mrs. Smith was formerly Miss Grace Smith of Sterling and is a close friend of the bride. Rev. E. K. Hester of the Mt. Carroll M. E. church read the ceremony which united the lives of this young couple in the presence of the bride's three sisters, Misses Marian, Faye and Elsie Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the Smith home. Mrs. Emmerson is the daughter of Representative Henry C. Allen and wife of Lyndon and is a popular young lady with a host of friends. She has been employed in the Heiss Insurance office and will continue her work for the present. Mr. Emmerson is a son of Mrs. Etta Emmerson of Rock Falls and is in the employ of the Whiffen Wholesale Grocery. They will reside at 503 Avenue B, Sterling. Best wishes are extended for their future happiness.

Ill. Club Women To Aid Farmer

Champaign, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois club women are coming to the aid of the corn farmer.

Cook books may have to be made by, and many a cake-baking will result in "flat" failure, yet the American housewife as well as the American farmer will eventually profit much from the change to corn sugar, Mrs.

Frank S. Goodman of Champaign told the seventy thousand club women of Illinois.

As state chairman of the civil service department, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Goodman herself devised some original recipes that made use of corn sugar and other corn products; yet this was accomplished only after repeated failures, she explained.

"Corn sugar is so fine and white, the first thing the housewife wants to do is to bake a cake. The result is a flat failure—very flat. But with patience we can learn to use it," Mrs. Goodman said. "But don't stop with sugar. Remember there are meal, hominy, syrup, corn crackers and other products."

THE CEDAR—

Of the old garden, only a stray shining

Of desol'd flames amid April's cuckoo-flowers.

Or a cluster of acornite mixt with weeds entwining!

But, dark and lofty, a royal cedar towers

By homely thorns; whether the white rain drips

Or sun scorches, he holds the downs in Ken,

The western vale; his branchy tiers he lifts,

Older than many a generation of men.

Held Shower for Miss Ethel Kay

Last evening the members of the Sunshine class of St. Paul's Lutheran church held a shower for Miss Ethel Kay, at her home, on Hennepin avenue, in honor of her approaching marriage to Ned Wood. Mrs. A. J. Kay, who has been teacher of the Sunshine class for years, is assisted by her daughter in teaching, Miss Ethel Kay.

The members of the class had cleverly planned the happy surprise of last evening and it was carried to successful culmination, the surprise being genuine. There were about fifty present. The gifts for the shower were of a miscellaneous nature, including many in china, linen, cut glass, etc. These were all nicely wrapped and presented the bride-to-be in a basket beautifully decorated for the occasion, accompanied by the good wishes of all. Everyone present had a most enjoyable time. During the latter part of the evening delicious refreshments were served.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast

Apple sauce, cereal, thin cream crisp broiled bacon, creamed potatoes, corn muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon

Asparagus in ramikins, toasted corn muffins, cherry salad, milk, tea.

Dinner

Lamb stew with dumplings, browned parsnips, orange and grape fruit salad, rice pudding, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

When asparagus is a bit high in price it can be satisfactorily "extended" by following the rule for asparagus in ramikins suggested for the main dish for luncheon.

Keep in mind that parsnips and salt-sify are at their best only in the spring when the "frost comes out of the ground" so the gardener can dig them. The winter freezing sweetens and crisps these vegetables making them quite delicate and delicious in flavor.

Asparagus in Ramikins.

One bunch asparagus, 4 eggs, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups rich milk or thin cream, 2 tablespoons grated cheese, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, parsley.

Wash and scrape asparagus and cut in inch lengths. Cook in as little water as possible until tender. If much water clings to asparagus when done drain and use water in making the sauce, lessening the amount of cream in proportion. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk or cream, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper and add cooked asparagus. Break an egg in well buttered ramikin, cover with sauce, filling ramikin as full as possible, cover with grated cheese and bake in a moderately hot oven until egg is firm. It will take about ten minutes if the sauce was very thick when poured over egg. Garnish with spring of parsley and serve in ramikin.

This dish of course can be baked in a glass baking dish but care must be taken in serving not to break the eggs. Custard cups can be used in place of ramikins if more convenient. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

VERDICT OF TEN JURORS.

Missourians are making a systematic effort so to revise their laws as to deal in a more practical manner with administration of justice through state courts and peace officials. At work is the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice. It is contributing a series of valuable articles to the people as it progresses with its study and its recommendations.

Judge Hugo Grimm of the circuit court in St. Louis contributed the most recent article in copyrighted form dealing with the supreme court and with jury reform. He asserts that the supreme court of Missouri in recent years has shown a different and less favorable attitude toward merely technical objections than in the latter part of the last century; that the language of judges used in different cases shows a decided inclination to consider cases on appeal upon their substantial merits and not to grant new trials unless some error has been committed in the trial court which actually was prejudicial to the defendant's rights or prevented him from having a fair trial.

It appears that the law governing the number of votes in a jury to constitute a verdict is embodied in the state constitution. In order to change the requirement of a unanimous verdict a constitutional amendment is necessary.

The constitution permits a verdict to be returned upon agreement of nine jurors in a civil case. The association says:

"We believe that this article should be amended so as to permit a verdict to be returned by not less than ten jurors in all criminal cases, except where the punishment assessed is death of imprisonment for life.

"We are satisfied that jurors are discharged in many cases because one or two men, through obstinacy, and in some cases from a bad motive, will prevent a verdict, and we have no doubt that there are cases where a few determined jurors won over others to a verdict of not guilty, against their own convictions, rather than remain from their homes for several days after the case has been submitted to them."

GASOLINE TAXES.

Illinois, New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey are the only states in the Union without gasoline taxes. Some of the rates amount to 20 percent of the gross value of gasoline.

It is probable that the issue will be presented in the next session of the Illinois general assembly, as farmers and farm organizations are intent upon substituting such a tax for a part of the property tax levied for improvement of highways not surfaced. In Rock Island county and many other counties is levied a property tax of 25 cents on $100 valuation for maintenance of state aid highways. This money is expended upon road patrolmen with their graders and upon oiling the highways. Governor Small proposed a tax to the last legislature, presumably with the thought that the map for the $60,000,000 bond issue can not be completed on that sum, because of increased costs after the issue was voted. The 100,000,000 issue will be used as far as it will go, but some of it will be required to complete the original map. Automobile organizations opposed the tax with success, the governor not insisting upon it at this time. It was agreed that the bond money might be expended before the tax will be necessary.

Farmers, however, were impressed by the proposal and they favor the tax not as an additional one, but in lieu of property taxes now being collected not only from them, but upon all property, real and personal.

States levying the tax and the amount levied on each gallon follow:

Rhode Island, North Dakota and Texas, 1 cent; New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Maryland, Alabama, Louisiana, Montana, Colorado, Washington and California, 2 cents; Wyoming, 2½ cents; Oklahoma, Idaho, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon, Maine, Indiana, South Dakota, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi, 3 cents; West Virginia, Georgia and Utah, 3½ cents; Arkansas, Nevada, North Carolina and Florida, 4 cents, and South Carolina, 5 cents.—Moline Dispatch.

THE FAST TAXI WITH THE FAST METER

"Say, Mister Tingaling, why do n't you hire an automobile?"

"My goodness alive!" said Mister Tingaling. "My pocketbook is still as fat as a pancake and as empty as a balloon! I'll never, never get rich this way, my dears."

Nancy and Nick felt sorry for the little fairman, for it seemed as though he was either being tricked out of his rent money or being robbed most of the time.

It was getting very late and the thirty-second day of the month was nearly over.

"Say, Mister Tingaling," said Nick. "Why don't you hire an automobile? You can collect ten times as many rents as you can by just walking around."

"That's a very good idea indeed," said Mister Tingaling. "Do you see a taxicab around anywhere?"

Just then a tiny taxicab with a fair driver all done up in a big coat and goggles went past.

"Cab here, please!" cried Mister Tingaling. "Cab here!"

The fair driver in the goggles turned his little yellow car around and came back.

Then Nancy and Nick and Mister Tingaling all climbed in and sat down. "Where to?" asked the driver before he shut the door.

"To Mister Mud Turtle's house on the bank," said the fairman, looking into his big rentbook.

The taxi driver jumped back on his seat and fixed the meter at the side until it said "00."

"Then he started off so suddenly it almost jerked their heads off."

In about two jiffies and half a wink they were at the house where Mosey Mud Turtle lived.

And without any trouble in the world, Mister Tingaling got Mosey's

THE VERY IDEA

by Hal Cochran

ANTIQUES

There once was a maiden who early in life, just craved for the time when she'd be some man's wife. She dreamed of the man whom she knew she would get—and started a hope chest as she'd be all set.

A little of that and a little of this were saved, as the things that would help married bliss. Thought she, 'twill surprise him, when I come to bat, with nearly enough things to furnish a flat.

The years wore along and the men came and went, but never, it seemed, did she meet the right gent. To marriage the roadway was never quite paved, for no man seemed worth all the things she had saved.

And then came the time when the end of her rope was reached 'cause she lost all her wedding bells hope. But that didn't fret her, or bring on the tears like all of the things that she's saved up for years.

Her love dream was blighted. It faded on its way. She opened a little antique store one day. And how did she do it? You'd never have guessed—with things that she'd put in her little hope chest.

BISHOP IS ARRESTED

Mexico City, April 27.—(AP)—Pastoral letters opposing the religious clauses of the Mexican constitution have resulted in orders for the arrest of another Roman Catholic bishop. It was officially announced today that the district attorney of Pachuca has ordered the arrest of Bishop Zarate of Huejutla.

A week ago Bishop Torres of Toluca had been arrested as the result of a memorial he sent to President Calles and state authorities of Alchoacan. He was released shortly afterwards under bond.

The language used in Bishop Zarate's pastoral letter and Bishop Torres' memorial is considered a violation of the provisions of the constitution.

THE VERY IDEA

by Hal Cochran

ANTIQUES

There once was a maiden who early in life, just craved for the time when she'd be some man's wife. She dreamed of the man whom she knew she would get—and started a hope chest as she'd be all set.

A little of that and a little of this were saved, as the things that would help married bliss. Thought she, 'twill surprise him, when I come to bat, with nearly enough things to furnish a flat.

The years wore along and the men came and went, but never, it seemed, did she meet the right gent. To marriage the roadway was never quite paved, for no man seemed worth all the things she had saved.

And then came the time when the end of her rope was reached 'cause she lost all her wedding bells hope. But that didn't fret her, or bring on the tears like all of the things that she's saved up for years.

Her love dream was blighted. It faded on its way. She opened a little antique store one day. And how did she do it? You'd never have guessed—with things that she'd put in her little hope chest.

Indiana attorney general has ruled that only sick folks can drink the new 3.85 per cent malt tonic. That's ugly! The ruling will make a lot of people sick—then they can get it.

A New York night club laughed at the law so the cops put a padlock on the door. Try and laugh that off.

Short skirts are free and kneeey.

As he was leaving town, he meant to kiss his lady fair.

The train pulled out so suddenly, He kissed the open air.

OLD TYRUS COBB, RECORD BREAKER, BEAT WHITE SOX

And Incidentally Smashed a Lot of Records He Himself Held

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A baseball disturbance of marked intensity is developing in the Great Lakes region.

For 21 years these rumblings have been heard at this season of the year, although in the past about two weeks earlier.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb of Georgia has entered the Detroit lineup. Yesterday he turned the tide which had been forcing his men steadily backward by delivering every kind of a safe hit but a home run in his first regular appearance of the season. His team found Lyons, Thurston and Connally of Chicago only seven times, but the Georgian's bat carried the day, 8-7. Cobb batted in four runs and scored twice himself. Besides this, he inserted a gloved hand catch that broke up an enemy rally.

Jugchandle Morrison, curve thrower of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, confined the Chicago Cubs to two hits and the Pirates won, 2-0, in an errorless battle.

"Murderers Row" Busy

"Murderers row," the New York Yankees slugging octet, continued its killing pace, bringing down the Philadelphia Athletics ace, Ed. Rempel. Ruth cleared the bases in the fifth inning when his terrific smash glanced off Bishop's shoulder and bounded to the far right field fence. Combs and Lazarr made home runs, the final score being, 8-2.

Walter Johnson was at his best at Washington and set back the Red Sox with four hits winning 9-1.

Cleveland gained a ten inning verdict over the St. Louis Browns 5-3, after Sisler's men had tied the count in the 9th with two runs. Linstrom and Jackson of the Giants were victims of minor injuries that caused them to leave the game against the Phillies. The Giants won 9-8.

Purnier went hitless for the first time this season against the Braves but his teammates delivered him when needed and Brooklyn defeated Boston 6-5.

BREAKING MANY RECORDS

Chicago, April 28—(AP)—Ty Cobb, who topples over at least three baseball records every time he safely swings on the horsehide, stands a chance of setting new marks about a thousand times this season if he continues to play and holds the pace of his first start in the 22nd year of his career in the majors.

The veteran pilot of the Detroit Americans, who holds more baseball records than anybody else in the game, started his first 1926 game with the Tigers yesterday, his previous appearances being as a pinch hitter, and he clinched his team's victory over Chicago and incidentally chalked up a whole hat full of new records. His single, double and triple in four at-bats brought in four runs and he scored twice himself.

When Ty singled he bettered three batting marks previously held by himself—those of the most hits in any league, the most singles ever made by one major leaguer and the most total bases for one majors player, the latter record previously standing at 5,356. Then he doubled, passing his old record of 1,036 extra base bingles, breaking his totals for hits and the most bases and adding to another old Cobb record, that for the most extra bases on extended hits.

His three bagger boosted five records—the four just reset by his double and his old total for triples. When he crossed the plate two times he shattered still another, passing on his total for most runs ever scored by one player to 2,040.

The trick in it is that Cobb is so far out in front that he automatically boasts a series of top marks every time he hits.

Locke not only will try to repeat his world record breaking feat of 9.5 in the 100 yard dash, which he established at the Drake relays last Saturday, but also will attempt a new time in the 400 yards. He is the only sprinter in recent seasons to tie the record for the longer distance.

Upon the request of H. D. Giss, assistant Director of Athletics, and H. F. Schulte, head track and coach of the University of Nebraska, G. P. Wendell official of the A. A. U. announced yesterday his organization will time all future performances of Locke in Nebraska Memorial stadium.

Invitations for exhibition races for Locke are pouring into the University of Nebraska athletic office, Coach Schulte said.

Hoff's Expense Money May Bring Him Censure

New York, April 28—(AP)—Charles Hoff, champion pole vaulter, apparently is open to censure by the A. A. U., because expenses of his relatives were paid on his tour.

Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas, has revealed that expenses of Mrs. Hoff and of Hoff's brother in law, J. A. Dan and wife, were paid while Hoff was at the Kansas relay. The rules of the A. A. U. forbid payment of traveling expenses of any kind for manager, trainer, rubber, friend or relative, except chaperones for girl swimmers.

Secretary Rublen is continuing his investigation.

The Federated Sportsmen of Illinois

Springfield, April 28.—Establishment of an experimental game breeding farm at the University of Illinois was advocated by Hon. Robert Scholes, Speaker of the House of Representatives here today.

In explanation of his stand on this matter Mr. Scholes submitted a resolution which was offered at the National Convention of the Izaak Walton League at Chicago. This resolution met with approval of all delegates present but was not adopted as it concerns just one state. The following is a copy of the resolution:

"Whereas, the breeding, improvement and raising of game birds in captivity for propagation purposes is a matter of great scientific and economic importance to all the citizens of the state of Illinois; and

"Whereas, Very little definite information in this important work is obtainable from any source; and

"Whereas, The University of Illinois is carrying on experiments in the breeding of animals and poultry and but a small additional expense would be incurred by carrying on similar experiments with game birds and animals; and

"Whereas, The game birds and animals of Illinois are important economically for food as well as for sport and are a benefit of agriculture; and

"Whereas, Their propagation on State owned game farms is an essential part of the program of constructive conservation sponsored by the Izaak Walton League and other sportsmen's organizations;

"Therefore be it resolved, That the

The 19-year-old winner was the center of a cheering throng of 5,000. He received the "key" to the town from the mayor and a gold watch was among his many presents. He gave all the credit for his world record to his father and mother.

Suzanne Lenglen's proposed visit to America for tennis exhibition matches starting in August, still awaits the approval of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Refusal to sanction an exhibition tour would leave few opponents for Mlle. Lenglen on this side, as any players under the jurisdiction of the association would be barred from playing against her. The advisory committee of the tennis association is expected to act next week.

Charles Hoff of Norway, world's champion pole vaulter, has started intensive drill in preparation for the University of Washington relay carnival at Seattle on Saturday.

American League officials are in New York to accept a constitution revised during the winter. Some of them said the little mesh bag which has been adjudged by Commissioner Landis a part of the pitcher's paraphernalia, in any league of organized baseball, might come up for discussion. Recently several players complained that Washington pitchers had been using resin from a bag in the dugout and President Johnson of the American League took action to stop the practice if the assertions were found to be true.

Illinois Branch of the Izaak Walton League of America present these facts to Governor Small and the members of the 55th General Assembly and make every effort to secure the establishment of an experimental game farm at the University of Illinois under the joint supervision of the University and the Department of Conservation so that necessary information relative to the best methods of breeding, improving and raising game birds and animals for propagation purposes may be obtained and disseminated to the farmers and sportsmen of Illinois that we may thus conserve our supply of game and carry to a successful completion the program of constructive conservation in which Illinois has made such astounding progress in the last four years; and was a timely blow, which sent two runs across the plate and spelled defeat for Boston.

"Be it Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Hon. Len Small, Governor, to William J. Stratton, Director of Conservation, to Hon. David Kinley, President of the University of Illinois, and all members of the 55th General Assembly and that the Izaak Walton League exert every effort to secure the passage of the legislation needed to accomplish this most necessary work of conservation of our game in Illinois."

Mr. Scholes suggested that every person interested in securing the establishment of this game farm should write the Secretary of the Federated Sportsmen at Springfield so that our desire may be made known to members of the Legislature and other officers.

Grover Alexander of the Cubs gave a great exhibition of control in his duel with Morrison. He issued no passes, but was touched for five hits in eight innings. Three of these blows came in one stanza and netted a run which was enough to defeat him.

Eddie Rempel, ace of Connie Mack's twirling staff, was forced to beat a hasty retreat before the savage attack of the Yankee sluggers in the fifth inning.

The Giants, when it seemed they would be beaten by the Phillies, came from behind with a rush in the eighth inning for five runs to tie the count. Then George Kelly came through with his second hit and sent home the winning marker.

Pitchers Ring and Dean who were traded by the Giants and Phillies last winter, opposed each other yesterday when the two teams met. Dean collected three hits, one of which was a home run, while Ring failed to connect. Ring was touched for 11 hits in six innings while Dean yielded seven before he was yanked in the eighth inning.

Deputy's Name is "N. G." on Any Search Warrant

Springfield, Ill., April 28—(AP)—Calling attention to the supreme court ruling that "a deputy sheriff can only act in the name of his principal," Attorney General Carlstrom declared a search warrant issued in the name of a deputy sheriff is invalid.

The opinion was given to R. C. Chappell, state's attorney of Jersey county. Chappell wrote that he had made a raid under a search warrant addressed to a deputy sheriff "in name and in title" due to the absence of the sheriff.

"The Illinois Prohibition Act," Attorney General Carlstrom said in further explaining his stand, "provides that a warrant may be directed to any peace officer having jurisdiction but the statute does not define a deputy sheriff as a peace officer and the deputy sheriff acts for the sheriff and in the name of the sheriff."

STOP THAT BACKACHE!

Many Dixon Folks Have Found the Way.

Is a dull, nerve-racking backache wearing you out? Do you feel older and slower than you should? Are you tired, weak and nervous; find it impossible to be happy, or enjoy the good times around you? Then there's something wrong and likely it's your kidneys. Why not get at the cause? Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Your neighbors recommend Doan's. Read what this Dixon resident says:

Mr. Smith, 113 Douglas Ave., Dixon, says: "My back ached and I had bearing down pains through the small of it. Dizzy spells came over me and specks came before my eyes, causing everything to get black before me. My kidneys acted too freely and I felt all out of sorts. A friend recommended Doan's Pills so I used a box from Sullivan's Drug Store. They fixed me up in fine shape."—Adv.

This meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The object of this tennis club is to promote the game among men and women in the city. For the past two or three years, tennis has not been as popular as it was at one time but all indications point to this being one of the best seasons in the history of the local club. The only two courts in Dixon are owned by the Dixon Assembly and are controlled by the Y. M. C. A. Club. They are excellent courts and after the work of this spring that is planned, they will be in the best possible shape.

At the meeting tomorrow evening, aside from the election of officers, committees will be appointed on rules and regulations, tournaments, grounds and membership. While the Y. M. C. A. members have special concessions, still the meeting is open to the public and non-members of the "Y" will have the same opportunity of using the courts by paying a slightly increased fee.

WILSON'S FIRST KNOWN VICTIM, A MINNEAPOLIS GIRL, WAS SPIRITED AWAY OR LEFT CHARLESTON, ILL., AT THE TIME THE TRIAL WAS TO BE HEARD. SHE IS BELIEVED TO HAVE GONE TO TEXAS. ILLINOIS FACES BIGGEST FIRE LOSS IN HISTORY During the Year

Springfield, Ill., April 27—(AP)—If Illinois keeps up fire losses at the rate established the first three months of the year, the total loss for 1926 will approximate $37,500,000, which would set a new high record for the state, according to State Fire Marshal John G. Gamber. The loss in Illinois for 1925 was $28,517,780, which was the highest annual loss on record up to that time.

"The losses usually run heavy the first three months of the year, but seem to be unusually heavy this year," said Mr. Gamber. "The total has been boosted by a number of large fires. No doubt the cold weather which continued so long this season had something to do with the fire loss showing. It would seem that the people of Illinois have plenty of room to practice fire prevention."

Classes of property suffering the most severe losses in March were: Factories $1,444,046; stores $617,739; dwellings $595,104; warehouses $435,577.

Of the known causes of fire, electricity caused the largest loss during March $443,367.

Other leading causes were: Sparks on roofs $155,491; exposure $148,365; rubbish and left $128,700; stoves and furnaces $116,907; chimneys and flues $106,890.

299 Illinois cities have streets paved with portland cement concrete

Located in the middle of Illinois' coal belt is one of the cleanest looking cities in the state—Marion, county seat of Williamson County.

Concrete Streets Help to Keep Marion a Clean Looking City

Two important factors in helping to keep Marion spic and span are its modern water works system and its concrete streets.

This light gray, aristocratic looking pavement is in every way worthy of Marion, its fine schools and other modern public buildings, its beautiful homes, and its neatly trimmed lawns.

Marion is rightly proud of its concrete streets and is building more of them every year.

So are scores of other Illinois cities and towns. Is yours one of them?

CROSS SECTION OF UNITED STATES!

Lincoln Highway Affords Panorama of Plains, Desert and Mountains in Coast to Coast Tour

BY ISREAL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service
Coast to coast will be the lure of thousands of motorists this year, and coast to coast is the offer of perhaps the most famous and most highly improved highway in the country.

The Lincoln Highway, stretching a distance of 3140 miles from New York to San Francisco, is one of the most remarkable highway engineering achievements in the history of the United States.

From the plains of the east, the road winds along the rolling prairies of the middle west, across formerly insurpassable desert, over majestic mountains and through forests of tall timber to the land of sunshine and flowers. The motorists forgets even the vastness of this highway project in his amazement at the natural wonders he passes.

This memorial road gives the tourist a cross-sectional view of America, revealing all its vastness and splendors. At the same time it recalls to his mind the adventuresome days of the stage coach, of Indian warfare and pioneering.

There was hardly a sign post to guide the traveler in those days, and many a skeleton told a tragic tale along the hot, dry sands of the western desert.

No Dangers Now
Now there is as much assurance of comfort and safety in driving over the same trail as there is in your own city. The Lincoln Highway Association, which has sponsored the construction of this route since its inception in 1913, has had sign posts and control signs set at convenient intervals along the entire stretch and has spent more than $70,000,000 in the construction and improvement of the highway.

As a result there isn't a mile that can't be traversed with safety, and there are only a few stretches that still need some precaution in traveling. Even these are fast being improved, so that it is expected that in a year or two the entire stretch of 3140 miles will be in first class shape.

"IDEAL SECTION" OF THE LINCOLN HIGHWAY NEAR CHICAGO

Of the eleven states the highway crosses, New Jersey, Illinois, Wyoming and California over fully improved roadbeds—a distance of 900 miles.

Ohio has a bad section from Upper Sandusky to Wyandot. Immediate construction of this road, with federal aid, is expected. Meantime paved detours are available and well marked.

Iowa and Nebraska are also progressing in road development, although rainy weather would find the tourist in mud in certain territories. In these states and in Utah, it is suggested that the tourist wait after a rain before venturing along a dirt stretch.

Despite these difficulties, a motorist can make a comfortable trip along the Lincoln Highway in 20 days. The first auto to cross the continent along this general route took 40 days. Last year one motorist—in much of a hurry—made it in

The best time for driving over the Lincoln Highway is between June and October, with September as the ideal month. But many motorists start early and even now are beginning the trek to the great west.

No extra gasoline or oil need be taken, although it is advisable to have an extra can in the car while driving west of Cheyenne for use in case of emergency. At times, in this territory, the driver is 35 miles from the nearest service station.

Why Girls Go Back Home

CATHARINE BRODY

Copyright 1926 by Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Clifford Dudley, matinee idol, re-views his boredom while "touting the sticks" by flirting with a remarkably pretty country girl, Marie Downey. As innocent as a puppy, Marie naively follows him to New York. Clifford heartlessly ignores her; figures on how to get rid of her permanently. Sally Short, an actress who befriends Marie and gets her a chorus job, warns her Clifford is dishonorable—and even Marie's staunch little heart begins to lose faith in the handsome actor.

CHAPTER IV—(Continued)

The group at Marie's table had their fluff dancing costumes already hooked up, their make-up on, and were lolling around a newspaper. Marie maneuvered her way gently to her end of the table, the girls drawing closer, with their arms on one another's shoulders, about the paper. They were laughing, giggling and reading bits aloud.

"What do you know about old Dudley, the stage's greatest lover?" screamed one.

"How old is that guy anyway," demanded another, "isn't he over forty?"

"Naw, what's on your mind? He can't be over thirty. I know that bird when he was a chorus man in 'Be This Is Paradise,' and that was only—only—"

"Ten years ago, if a day," pronounced another voice maliciously.

The two girls turned on one another. There was usually an argument of some kind in the dressing room. But this one was nipped in the bud by the powdery arms of a "You're—you're—lars!" she gasped.

synthetic blonde, who, coolly pushing the combatants apart, thrust her high-heeled slipper athletically on the paper and ripped it end to end, cutting Dudley's pictured nose in two.

Her harsh voice—a "whiskey" voice, it's called along Broadway—had a vicious bite.

"The stage's newest lover! So help me, Annabel, there's nothing new about his stuff—his line was old with mama was in the convent with the dear sisters!"

There was an outburst of giggles, and calls of "Attagirl, Queenie." Her breach of promise suit against Clifford was no secret. "You ought to know, dearie," called another, "he ran you ragged."

There was no malice in the tone. It was said casually, a wise-crack, and Queenie, shrugging her shoulders, made no reply.

But the others, not to be outdone, took up the conversation, contributing wise-cracks of their own.

"He's some chaser, that boy. He once chased a skirt three blocks before he discovered it was a Scotchman."

"He packs a mean harem! He's feedin' half a dozen sweeties with his serious love stuff right now—"

"Oh, you bunch of wise-crackers, keep your remarks for the Algonquin," cried the tall, languid brunette who had been trying vainly to finish a chapter in a hectic reel.

There was a pause, and in the pause Queenie said blandly: "He's even got a sweetie in this show, bum as it is."

The clamor rose again in shrieks of curiosity, in shrill demands: "Who?" "What's the sap's name?" Queenie pointed to Marie.

"There she is," she said, fully conscious of the sensation. Our little Miss Butter Won't Melt in Her Mouth. I saw her giving him a sweet goodnight kiss on her hoop."

"Well, fer cryin' out loud," a voice rose high above the hullaballoo, "is he goin' into the sticks for them, too?"

The tall girl shut her book. Her voice called languorously:

"Take my advice, sweetheart, and lay off actors. If you must have a sure-enough daddie, catch a millionaire."

"Clifford don't exactly keep you in luxury, does he, Marie?" another voice inquired.

There was a burst of laughter as the girls looked at Marie's neat, cheap little blue dress, so the pride of her heart at home, so worn and countenanced here.

Marie turned at last, with tears trembling down her cheeks, and the flushed face and shaking body of a terrified little animal at bay.

"You're—you're—lars!" she gasped. She turned to Queenie shaking, but with head erect.

"Clifford and I are engaged to be married."

"Well, fer cryin' out loud!" bawled the tall girl.

Queenie bowed with laughter her hands on her hips, her body swaying.

"Get that, kids! Do you get that?"

But the other girls paused, abashed by the tears, taken aback by the earnestness. One of the girls, pitying, made a move to put her arm about Marie's quivering shoulders, but Marie drew away.

"If you don't believe me," she cried at Queenie, "ask Sally."

This time there was entire silence. The girls looked at each other, wondering and half-believing. They knew Sally Short. If she was in on it, this was no monkey business. A small girl near the door, who had kept her eyes and ears open and her mouth shut, hugged her kimono about her at the last words and slipped out of the room.

"Congratulations," breathed the tall brunette. "I hand it to you. Anyone who can get Clifford Dudley—"

It broke the spell. With laughter the girls resumed their dressing, shrugging their shoulders. It might or might not be true. They should worry. That was that!

Eyes blinded by a wet film, Marie's hands groped along the table. Her make-up was spoiled by tears. She swallowed and began dreadingly to repair the damage.

Out in the hall the small chorus girl had seized the show's press agent, her very dear friend and her least severe critic, and to him she was telling a tale, which caused him to open his eyes and give a grin and a hug.

"You're a cute little skeezicks all right," he exclaimed, finishing the hug with a kiss which savored of alcohol. "And for this I'll even marry you—if the old lady ever gets her divorce."

The little chorus girl slipped happily back to her place, and as she dressed she hummed a merry tune to the effect that she loved him, she loved him, and that was all that she could say.

CHAPTER V

Sally and Marie retired that night with none of the chatter and delay which characterized their usual preparations for bed. They had their separate causes for uneasiness. Sally, having had a heart-to-heart talk with the stage manager, was planning for the imminent closing of "Pretty Polly" with special reference to Marie.

She knew Marie hadn't been able to get enough sleep and hadn't nearly enough self-sufficiency to trot out and grab another job in competition with all the little, hard-faced, self-assured chorines on Broadway.

It never occurred to Sally to desert Marie; but all the same, she could not help wondering. Most of the revues and winter musical comedies had by this time, the middle of autumn, already been cast. For herself Sally could go out on the road at any time, but then—what of Marie?

As for Marie, taking sidewise glances at Sally's absorbed face, she decided wrongly that Sally was annoyed with her, and for fear of widening the breach she kept unbroken silence.

Naturally they were primed to rise in the morning with dull, cross feeling after a troubled sleep. It did not help matters any that at the, to them, god-forsaken hour of nine the telephone by Sally's bed released peal after peal of its jangling call in her ear. She reached for it crossly.

"Hello, hello, hello," staccato. "May I speak to Miss Marie Downey, please?"

"Who wants her?" barked Sally.

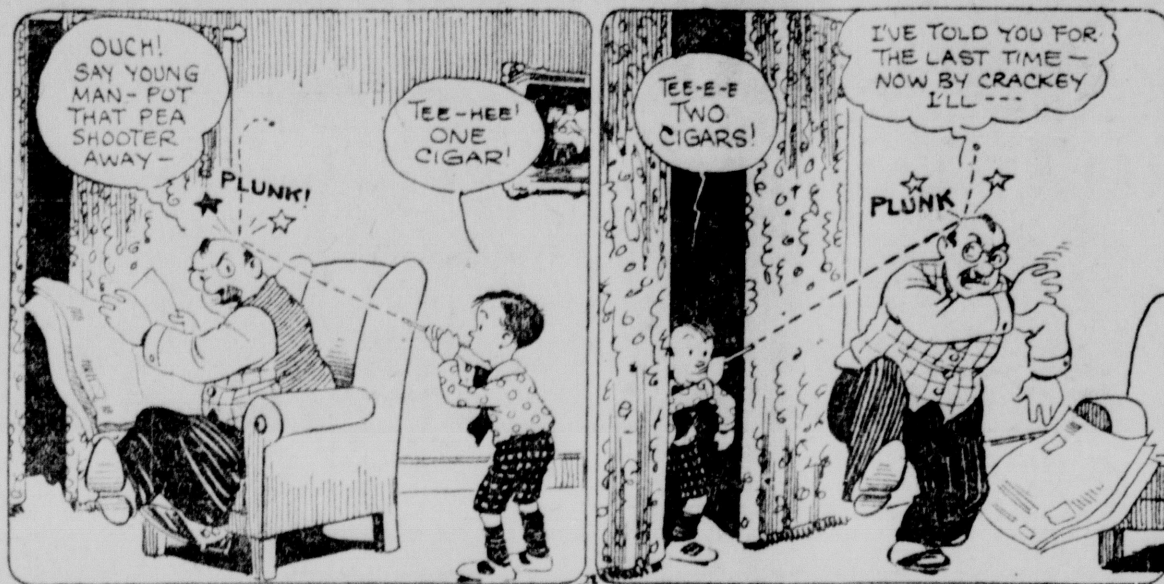

A suave voice replied with assurance, "The New York Evening Star."

"The New York Evening Star," cried Sally, starting wide awake at once. "What do you want to speak to her about?"

"We want an interview with her about her engagement to Clifford Dudley, which was announced in this morning's paper, and we want a picture."

Early Tomatoes to Show Big Increase in Crop of "Egypt"

Centralia—(AP)—A survey of the conditions and prospects of the Southern Illinois fruit and vegetable shipping has just been completed by A. B. Leeper, director of fruit and vegetable marketing of the Illinois Agricultural Association, and general manager of the Illinois Fruit Exchange.

The section which has been planted to the extremely hot weather varieties last fall, the plantings of strawberries this season are the heaviest for several years and with normal weather conditions this summer the 1927 crop should show a very material increase. The first shipments of berries will be at least two weeks later than last year, when they started on May 4.

Asparagus shipments probably will be as heavy as those of last year, the crop will be late and the season short.

Apparently the largest increase in annual crops in Egypt will be in early tomatoes, Mr. Leeper said. If all the plantings contemplated are made, the district will show an increase of about 600 percent over last year. The sweet potato crop this year also will show a considerable increase, not only in Southern Illinois but in other producing sections, and the Irish potato acreage, particularly in the Madison and St. Clair county districts, has also been increased.

The tree fruit crop throughout this section probably will show an increase over last year, Mr. Leeper said, although in Union, Jackson and Pulaski counties there has been a lot of winter kill. The new acreage coming into bearing, according to those best informed in the district, will more than overcome the tonnage lost from winter killing. Johnson county apparently had the best of all the Southern Illinois counties as far as peaches were concerned and will have several times as many peaches to ship as in 1925.

The wine grape seems to be blooming the heaviest of all the late apples in this territory. Every pear tree seems to be in 100 percent bloom.

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HARRY MORTON, unmarried, middle-aged, wealthy, very attractive to women, divides his time between his home in Rochester and his apartment in New York. His associates know nothing of his past, or what his real business is.

AUDREY MORTON, his adopted daughter, is wildly in love with him. He tries to divert her attention to JOHN PARRISH, his methodical young secretary. He lets her see him with gay women, including NONA, a New York stage girl, who also is deeply in love with him.

Audrey decides to enter stage life, to learn how stage girls manage to attract Morton. Parrish reports that she has hired a male dancer to be partner in her act. Morton arranges with Nona to leave her own place to be Audrey's teammate. A girl, who with her own male dance partner has been out of work, is proposed for Nona's place. Morton sees Nona's manager in the girl's behalf, and is told that the male member of her team has tried to get $100 advance money from the producer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXVII

"I've seen that fellow," Morton laughed. "He tried to black mail me, once. Did you give him any money?"

"I did not," jerked the manager.

"I'm too old in this game to be passing out any money I don't have to. Except, of course, sometimes when my people are out of luck. Is his partner the girl you wanted to see me about?"

Without being invited, Morton helped himself to a chair, and told the girl's story—how it happened that Nona was leaving the company.

Why the other girl was sorely in need of work something about Audrey.

The producer was interested

"Poor little girl!" he said, commiseratingly. "There's lots of hard luck in this profession, isn't there? But she's too skinny."

Morton's eyes narrowed, reminiscently. "When I first saw the young lady," he said, "she took off her coat. Underneath she was wearing only a kimono. I'm inclined to think—"he looked at the producer—

"that those hollows are only in her cheeks and neck. A few days' feeding will fill her out."

The manager grinned. "Send her around," he said. "If she's a professional, she might do, with a week's fattening. Anyhow, I'll have her sing and put on a few steps.

This is only a summer show anyhow."

Morton thanked him, and rose to go. "I feel guilty, now, in taking Nona away from you," he said.

"You've been so decent about this."

In great good spirits, Morton telephoned his news to Nona.

"Send that girl over as soon as the old man is abroad in the morning," he said.

It was nearing midnight, and a cool breeze had sprung up. Swinging his cane, and whistling, Morton walked home. Audrey had arrived before him, and was waiting for him in the drawing-room.

She kissed him, absent-mindedly, and stood twisting a ring upon her finger as he sank into his chair. Her brov was contracted, as if in puzzlement, and she stood looking at the floor until he broke the silence.

"Better tell daddy," he suggested.

"What's wrong?"

She sighed. "Everything has been so queer lately. Things used to go smoothly, and I was happy, and now—well, I don't know."

She sighed again.

"Farrish up to something?" he asked.

She shook her head. "No, it wasn't Farrish."

He waited for her to continue.

"Well, who was it then?" he inquired at last.

"Me, I guess. I think maybe I'm a fool." She pulled over a chair and sat close before him.

"Daddy, will you give me a thousand dollars, and not ask what it's for?"

His face did not change expression. "You have a big bank balance in Rochester. You could draw on that," he suggested.

"I haven't any check-book," she said. "You told me about having all that money, and I don't even know how to draw it out. Don't I have to be identified or something?"

"I'll give you a book of checks on that bank," he said. "Your signature is registered there. I had you sign some cards a long while ago.

You've forgotten it."

He went into his study, and presently returned with a small pocket-folder, bearing the printed name of the Rochester bank.

"Fill out a check, sign it, and I'll cash it," he said. "Or if you like,

I'll have you introduced tomorrow at my bank here in New York, and they'll cash it for you."

He waited impatiently for her to sign. At last, she looked up at him.

"Aren't you going to ask me what it's for?" she said.

"Do you want to tell me?"

"I think I do—I don't know. I don't seem able to talk about it now.

Daddy, how early can I have the money?"

"When the bank opens in the morning. Say, a quarter after nine."

How the Legionnaires Will Get to Paris

This map contains all the necessary information for ex-service men who are planning on going to Paris in the fall of 1927 for the American Legion convention. Drawn up by the American Legion Weekly, it shows just how much it will cost for a round trip ticket from each state capital to the various ports of embarkation. For instance: a man living in California looks at the map and finds that a round trip ticket from Sacramento to New York will cost $109.95. He can figure about 20 per cent more for Pullman fare, and $10 or $20 more for meals and incidentals. To this total he can add the price of his ocean voyage and expenses in Paris, which will be either $175, $300 or $450, depending on whether he chooses the minimum, medium or maximum rates. These rates include all expenses from the time he leaves New York until his boat returns.

FIRE HEROINE FIRST TO GET IN ON "AWARD"

Barrington, N. J. Miss Presents Entry in Sesqui Contest

An eighteen year old girl, heroine of a recent Philadelphia fire, has achieved fresh honors by becoming the first candidate for the American Youth Award offered by the Directors of the Sesqui Centennial International Exposition, and as such was formally presented to Mayor Kendrick, President of the Exposition, which will be held in Philadelphia from June 1 to December 1.

She is Miss Edith May Adams of Barrington, N. J., and was presented to the Mayor by one of her sponsors, Mrs. Nancy R. Prummer, Captain of Barrington Girl Scout Troop No. 1. Her other sponsor was the Rev. Benjamin F. Albright of Barrington. These two persons were so impressed by Miss Adams' qualifications for one of the coveted awards of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition that they lost no time in forwarding her entry.

Miss Adams displayed one of her characteristics, courage, when she remained in a burning building at 235 North Third Street, Philadelphia, where she is employed as a clerk, and assisted a physician in administering first aid to several injured men.

Despite the handicap of threatened ill health Miss Adams has made a wonderful record in the Girl Scouts and is now one of the leaders of that organization in her state. She has become eligible and is now a candidate for the highest honor in the gift of the Girl Scouts, the coveted Golden Eaglet. Of the 200,000 Girl Scouts in the United States only 185 have received this honor. It means that the recipient has become proficient and passed the tests in 21 difficult scout activities.

The American Youth Award, for which Miss Adams has become a candidate, has been established by the directors of the Exposition as a tribute of honor to the Youth of America. Each State and the District of Columbia has been invited to select one girl and one boy who represent in the highest degree the best ideals of American youth. Upon these, the American Youth Award will be conferred in each state.

Entry forms are now being distributed from Sesqui-Centennial headquarters, Philadelphia, to all who request them.

In conjunction with the American Youth Award there has also been established the American Teacher Award and each State has been invited to select the woman teacher

Leisure Hours for Farm Boy Like Algebraic 'X'

Jerseyville, Ill.—(AP)—Leisure hours in a farm boy's life are like "X" in the algebra problem—they represent the unknown according to Ross Graner, farm boy of this community, who holds the record here for "spare time" work done while a member of the Jerseyville high school class in vocational agriculture.

There were thirty boys enrolled in the class during the past semester. Of these, twenty-five lived on farms. Ross Graner was one of the twenty-five. The work that he accomplished, as enumerated in the following list, was done after school hours and on Saturdays between October, last fall, and April 1, this spring. And it was done in addition to his regular project in vocational agriculture of which but one item was the spreading of sixteen tons of lime.

Ross Graner milked 1133 cows—that is, he did that many separate milkings. He constructed, alone, 100 rods of farm fencing; he pruned 73 fruit trees he pulled 1720 separate snake root plants, a serious menace to cattle, in his father's pasture; he tested the milk, for butter fat, of each

Springfield, Illinois—(AP)—County boards of supervisors may not dispense with the office of county superintendent of highways and take over its work, Attorney General Carlstrom said in an opinion.

After the resignation of William S. Henderson, superintendent of highways of Schuyler county, the county board declared the office vacant and authorized its chairman to create a committee for maintenance of roads. The board gave its chairman permission to withdraw funds for the purpose.

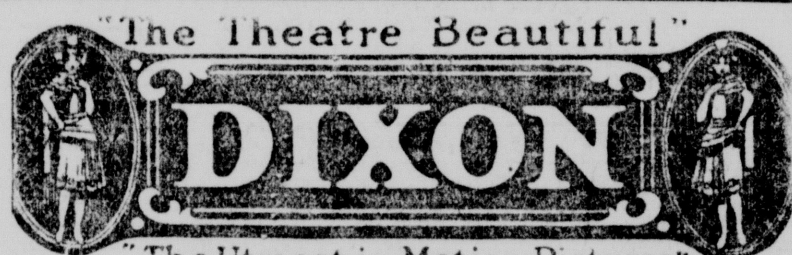

The attorney general declared this to be illegal in his opinion to State's Attorney Paul W. Mourning, and his ruling is said to affect every county in the state. Similar situations exist in Wabash and Montgomery counties state highway officials said.
